Bideford, Devon, and the Atlantic world

A new look at Elizabethan maritime history

From Sir Richard Grenville's ill-fated attempts to set up a colony in the New World to the participation of North Devon ships in defending England against the Spanish Armada, Bideford's role in key historical events of the sixteenth century is well recognized. This event is a chance to learn more about the world 16th C Bidefordians inhabited and the importance of northern Devon at a crucial stage in England's history.
